HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

The Book of Random Tables: Cyberpunk 3 serves as a companion to the first two books in the series, filling gaps and providing game masters with even more tools.

Game masters can use these tables in various ways. Rolling before the session or during it are both common approaches. Some GMs prefer to pick items from the lists instead of rolling dice. However, having the players roll always adds unexpected twists and turns.

Like all the Books of Random Tables, this one is divided into sections.

The first section is Items & Things. Here, game masters will find tables like Items in an Abandoned Building, Items in a Backpack, and more. Tables like these are invaluable for GMs.

Food & Brands is the next section. These tables provide GMs with extra details to create a sense of realism in their cyberpunk campaigns. This section includes Korean Street Foods, Philippine Brands, and more.

The NPCs section supplies non-player characters, ensuring GMs always have interesting people to add to their sessions. Players often ask who is in the bar, so there's a table with 100 bar patrons. Plus, the Street Docs random table helps GMs introduce variety when player characters need patching up.

Bands is the next section. Cyberpunk, as a genre, is rich with fictional bands and stories centered around music or musicians. The Bands random table offers 100 bands, complete with band names, member names, and their hit songs.

The Encounters & Street Races section provides game masters with story hooks and more. The Street Encounters table allows GMs to keep the excitement going even when the party is just walking down the street. The Illegal Street Races table lets GMs add some Fast & Furious action to their campaigns.

The Names section contains 1,500 names, primarily from Southeast Asia, to enhance the multicultural feel of any cyberpunk campaign.

In the Bonus section, you'll find Fictional Movie Titles and Urban Weather tables, which further enrich the game world.

With these random tables, game masters have even more tools at their disposal to create thrilling and immersive cyberpunk adventures. Fire up the mainframe and enter the matrix—the adventure-filled world of cyberpunk awaits.

URBAN WEATHER

1. Heatwave - Several weeks with temperatures soaring above 100 degrees Fahrenheit causing deaths and spikes in crime.
2. Toxic haze - Near ground-level blanket of creeping poisonous fumes.
3. Flash flood - Torrents of sewerage-tainted water rush through the streets destroying vehicles, flooding stores, and sweeping people away.
4. Dust storm - Fills the air with swirling dust and debris, reducing visibility and creating an eerie, sepia-toned haze.
5. Chemical mist - Pungent almost thinner-smelling mist that burns the eyes and nose.
6. Urban canyon gusts - Strong winds ripping through the artificial canyons between the mega buildings cast huge clouds of litter into the air, knock down pedestrians, and even flip over vehicles.
7. Thunderstorms - Violent storms with frequent downpours, powerful winds, and strong lightning.
8. Smog - Layer of smoke and other pollutants that hang above the city for days.
9. Fog - A combination of natural fog and pollutants creates thick pea soup-like banks that roll through the city.
10. Acid rain - Corrosive rain that burns the skin and slowly eats away concrete and metal. It usually comes in the form of a drizzle that lasts for hours.
