How to Use this Book

In this helpful book, you will find 36 1D100 random tables for use with any tabletop roleplaying game with a modern setting. That means you could playing urban fantasy, superheroes, spies, military, or anything else that takes place in the present.

You will find seven different sections each with a specific set of random tables.

The first section is Mission Hooks & Encounters. These can be used to create sessions or campaigns on the fly. They can provide complications to existing adventures or campaigns. These seed ideas are useful in superhero or spy campaigns.

The next section is Items & Things. These are random items that give settings extra depth. A gamemaster should use these to cut down their prep time.

The Places section gives the gamemaster options to locate situations or encounters in unique places around the world.

In the Weapons Names section, you'll find names for US and Russian weapons. These random tables help add a bit of realism to the game.

Sometimes in games set in the modern-day, the characters need to navigate government bureaucracy. The Agencies section provides lists of agencies that the characters could work for or against.

The Terrorist Groups section contains the names of active terrorist groups. These could be used in a variety of ways during sessions.

The last section is Names. Here you will find various names to help you while running sessions.

With these random tables in hand, gamemasters and players can enjoy what the world has to offer. Go forth and have wonderful adventures.
